In my position as the Division Director for Employment and Training Programs (Marin County Health and Human Services Dept) and Marin County Workforce Development Board Director, I worked closely with our Probation Department and saw a definite need for skill development and collaboration building among individuals and organizations working with justice-involved youth and adults. I had attended training that Larry Robbin presented on this topic, and I reached out to him to work with my staff, partners from community based organizations, the Probation Department, and State Parole in Marin County.

Larry provided a comprehensive series of trainings focused on the skills and strategies required to improve the employment and job retention of justice involved youth and adults. The audience for the trainings was quite diverse. It included management and staff from a wide range of organizations and in various roles in this work. The material Larry presented was very innovative and yet extremely practical and it appealed to this broad audience.

Larry's presentation was informed by his long history of work with programs and individuals that served people who were justice involved. In the course of the series of trainings, he covered increasing employment motivation, overcoming barriers to employment, job search strategies, interviewing techniques, understanding employer perspectives and job retention. Attendees completed evaluations for every session, and the overall feedback was excellent. I would recommend Larry for organizations that want to improve the employment outcomes of justice involved individuals. For further information, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

As someone with a long career in workforce development including working for the Department of Labor and being a Director of a Workforce Development Board and now as the Executive Director of the California Workforce Association, I have had an opportunity to be acquainted with the work of the vast majority of the national trainers and consultants in the workforce development field. I have used the webinar, training and consulting services of Larry Robbin on many occasions. Our organization has sponsored numerous reentry and employment training sessions presented by Larry Robbin that have received outstanding evaluations. Larry has been invited to present at more of the California Workforce Association conferences than any other trainer because he provides the highest quality and most innovative training and consulting services of anyone in the field. His work is the state-of-the-art and yet very practical. Larry transforms the work people are doing to higher levels and helps his training attendees and consulting clients get results they never imagined. I highly recommend him to any organization.
