“I have been involved in the youth workforce development field for over twenty-five years on the local and national levels. I have seen and worked with many of the best consultants and trainers in the field. Larry Robbin is one of the few at the top of that list. I have used both his consulting and training services on many occasions. His thinking is at the state-of-the-art of the youth workforce development field, yet he is able to transform those "big picture" ideas into practical strategies that are incredibly relevant to youth program management and staff. I know many youth employment programs that have used his services and we all share the same high opinions of his work. I strongly recommend his services to anyone that wants to improve their outcomes and bring their program closer to excellence.”
